Towns along the entire southern and western coast are now blacked out each night as a precaution against any aerial "surprises."

GUFFEY RETAINS PENNSYLVANIA'S DEMS' SUPPORT

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 24—Apparent victory for U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey in his primary fight for the Democratic nomination to succeed himself today strengthened the hold of "Pennsylvania's No. 1 Democrat" on the state organization and threatened to topple from power Democratic State Chairman David L. Lawrence.

The junior Pennsylvania senator led Walter A. Jones, fellow Pittsburgher and chairman of the Pennsylvania Turnpike Commission who was backed by Lawrence, by approximately 57,000 votes with two-thirds of the state's 8089 precincts reported. Both are New Dealers. The vote: Guffey-269,000; Jones-212,000.

President Roosevelt received upward of 300,000 votes for a third term with two-thirds of the precincts reported. The state's delegation will go to the Democratic national convention unpledged but expected to vote for the President (Continued on Page Two)

HOUSE TO STUDY WALLACE'S ROLE IN CREDIT VOTE

WASHINGTON, April 24—In a stormy session today, the house agriculture committee voted to investigate activities of Secretary of Agriculture Wallace and Dr. A. G. Black, governor of the Farm Credit Association, in behalf of the Jones-Wheeler farm credit bill. The vote was 12 to 9.

The action followed charges that Dr. Black had violated federal law by using his official position and government funds to whip up sentiment among farmer borrowers for the measure which revolutionizes the present farm credit system.

NATCHEZ, Miss., April 24—Death toll of 203 Negroes, trapped by flames in a fire which destroyed a crowded dance hall last night, was officially announced today by Coroner R. E. Smith.

Coroner Smith estimated that the final death toll would be near 250. Scores were taken to hospitals suffering from burns and other injuries.

The Negroes, caught in a frame structure to which there was only one exit, were burned and suffocated when tinder-dry Spanish moss with which the hall was decorated caught fire shortly before midnight.

One hundred and ninety-five died in the screaming and fighting throng which jammed behind the one door, Coroner Smith said. The windows of the hall had been boarded up to prevent gate crashing.

Eight more victims died en route to hospitals or shortly after reaching them. Between 40 and 50 of those who escaped alive were seriously or critically burned. Most of the victims were young persons, many of them 15 and 16 years old.

Although the cause of the fire was not immediately determined, Coroner Smith said he assumed that the decorations were ignited when someone lighted a cigaret, possibly throwing aside a still-lighted match.

Between 600 and 700 dancers, gathered for one of the highlights of the Negro social season for which tickets were $2.50 apiece, were on the dance floor when the fire broke out, Coroner Smith estimated. Tickets for 1,100 persons had been sold.

So quickly did the flames envelop the hall that, although a fire station is only a short distance away, firemen arrived too late to do anything for the victims. Only the skeleton of the one-story building was left standing.

Ten of the members of the Walter Barnes Negro band from Chicago were believed to be among the dead.

Firemen said at 2 a. m. they had carried out 100 bodies. The victims, they said, were evenly divided between men and women. The hall, left in ruins, was known as the Rhythm Night Club, and was located in the downtown Negro district.

Natchez has a population of 18,000, about 9,000 of whom are Negroes. The hall was a one-story frame structure through which the flames ate with lightning rapidity.

Hall Converted Church

The hall formerly was a church, of the Sanctified Negro sect, but was converted for dancing about two years ago.

So swift was death and destruction by the fire that little or no attempt could be made to effect any rescues. The crowd knotted up in the doorway, slowing the exit of those with a chance to escape.

FORMER DETROIT MAYOR, CHAMP'S AIDES INDICTED

DETROIT, April 24—After a lull of nearly two months Circuit Judge Homer Ferguson's one-man grand jury struck with renewed vigor at Wayne County's $12,000,000 annual numbers racket, naming 135 persons including former Mayor Richard W. Reading, John Roxborough and Julian Black, Negro co-managers of world's heavyweight champion Joe Louis and others in indictments charging conspiracy to protect and operate policy houses.

Named in the indictments handed down secretly last night were 89 present and former policemen. Twenty-eight other persons were named as co-conspirators and 16 "John Does" were named.

Warrants were immediately issued for the arrest of those indicted and officers dispatched to apprehend them.

This latest upheaval in Detroit's renewed war against racketeering, graft and police corruption came as the one-man grand jury probe went into its eighth month.

As Special Prosecutor Chester P. O'Hara handed the warrants to officers he promised there would be no cessation of the probe, saying:

"This is not the end. There are going to be other grand jury warrants."

The defendants, when brought in, will be arraigned before Judge Ferguson sitting as magistrate.

DIES CALLS FOR OUSTER OF REDS

Chairman Of Committee On Un-American Activities Appeals To Lewis

WASHINGTON, April 24—The Communist Party has obtained control of powerful marine radio stations at sea and ashore as part of a plan to establish a Soviet system in this country, a Dies committee witness testified today.

The witness, Fred M. Howe, a marine radio operator, said the party had obtained key radio spots through an active "fraction membership" in the CIO American Communications Association.

WASHINGTON, April 24—Chairman Dies (D) Tex., of the house un-American activities investigating committee today called on John L. Lewis for the immediate expulsion of Communists holding official positions in his Congress of Industrial Organizations (CIO) unions.

The demand was made as the committee prepared to hear further testimony that Communist Party members through "Trojan horse" tactics have been seizing leadership in unions dominating America's vital industries. "We have shown that Communist agents of foreign governments are in the saddle in many CIO unions," Dies declared. "Long ago we invited Mr. Lewis to appear before the committee and answer these charges. He ignored the invitation."

"The time has come now for action. The unions, especially the CIO unions, should face this issue squarely. If they are really interested in the welfare of the workingman, they should oust (Continued on Page Two)

SENATORS MOVE TO OUST TAUSSIG FOR STATEMENTS

WASHINGTON, April 24—Navy courtmartial proceedings against Rear Admiral Joseph K. Taussig for his U. S.-Japanese war prediction were demanded today by Sen. Clark (D) Mo.

Harshly critical, Clark led a chorus of bipartisan congressional protest against the high-ranking naval officer's statement delivered before the senate naval affairs committee Monday, that war between this country and Japan is inevitable.

"Taussig's statement was a perfectly outrageous, indefensible exhibition of militarism, for which he should be courtmartialled," said Clark.

Sen. Nye (R) N. D., denounced the Taussig statement as a "naïve maneuver to get the United States to build more battleships."

The committee was considering the house-approved naval expansion bill as Taussig spoke.

Saboteur Wounds Sentry, Flees After Trying To Enter Quantico Hangar

WASHINGTON, April 24—G-men launched an intensive search today for a suspected saboteur who shot a sentry and escaped when he was surprised in the act of breaking into a hangar at the Marine Corps air base at Quantico, Va.

The assault on the hangar was disclosed only last night, although it took place shortly after midnight Sunday. First reports were that the hangar contained one of the United States' most valuable military secrets—a new bomb sight.

Marine corps officials, however, said the particular bomb sight is not used by the first marine aircraft group, based at Quantico. They added that they believed sabotage was intended, due to discovery of what was apparently an improvised torch discarded by the prowler in his flight.

Agents of the special sabotage squad of the Federal Bureau of Investigation were reported watching Potomac River and Chesapeake Bay points, in the belief that a prowler approached and left the air field by the nearby river.

The air base guard was doubled and sentries were mounted on all roads entering and leaving the field as soon as the affair was reported, it was learned. This heightened the G-men's conviction that the suspected saboteur could not have made his escape by land.

Gas-Soaked Torch Found

The "torch" that was found comprised a long pole to which gasoline-soaked burlap had been attached. Officials said they believed the prowler intended to set fire to the gasoline tanks of one of the planes in the hangar, counting on the length of the pole to save him from the first flash of flame.

Investigators said they believed the saboteur expected the explosion, hurling flaming gasoline, would set fire to other hangars and wreck the flying base. Some of America's newest and most powerful fighting planes are berthing at Quantico. Marine corps officials said their loss would have been considered serious.

The prowler was surprised by a sentry as he attempted to enter the hangar. When challenged, he drew a revolver and fired one shot into the sentry's abdomen. The sentry fired one shot back before collapsing. His condition was reported today as not serious.

BALKAN NATION IN SECRET MOVE TO HALT ATTACK

LONDON, April 24—In a dispatch from Belgrade, the London Evening Standard today reported secret partial mobilization of the Yugoslavian army.

Three divisions were reported to have been sent to southern Serbia and Montenegro to counter a possible Italian drive through Albania, the dispatch said.

Plans have been completed for the evacuation of children from Belgrade, while the United States consulates there and at Zagreb have advised all nationals to leave, according to the Standard.

The dispatch further said that Yugoslavia had banned export of eggs, meat and game. Germany is raising the price of coal exports to Yugoslavia and the British are offering to replace them, the Standard said.

The dispatch also stated that current Italo-Yugoslavian trade talks had been postponed.

CITY IN RUINS AFTER ATTACK DURING NIGHT

High Explosives And Incendiary Bombs Tossed On Norwegian Center In Night Attack; 6,000 Homeless

NUMEROUS RUMORS CIRCULATED

British Massing Detachments North Of Trondheim For Battle Expected To Be Of Major Proportions

STOCKHOLM, April 24—After a nightlong bombardment that left the town a mass of smoking ruins, German troops swept into the strategic railway center of Steinkjer, 60 miles north of Trondheim today, forcing British and Norwegian defenders to retreat to new positions.

Official Norwegian advices received in Stockholm described the Nazi onslaught on Steinkjer as one of the most devastating of the war.

High explosive and incendiary bombs hurtling from the sky and grenades and shells hurled into all sections of Steinkjer were reported to have wrecked the town completely. Six thousand Norwegian residents now are homeless.

Latest advices said that the British and Norwegian positions eight miles north of the city were still holding out and still represented a strategic grip on the railway spur running through Steinkjer.

British field headquarters in the main hotel of Steinkjer were hastily evacuated a short while before Nazi bombing planes appeared over the city and dropped bombs on the buildings.

It was considered possible, however, that the withdrawal may have been a strategic one, the British and Norwegians giving way before superior Nazi forces.

(A Reuter dispatch from Stockholm to London said that Allied reinforcements were streaming down the Gudbrandsdal Valley unceasingly, heading for Lillehammer. The dispatch quoted the Roeros correspondent of the newspaper Aftenbladet as stating that neither side had made any advances. A five-day snowstorm paralyzed all military activity at Narvik, Reuter said, accounting for failure of an anticipated Allied attack to materialize.)

(EDITOR'S NOTE: A German communique reported capture of Steinkjer after a "brief battle.") Latest advices said the British and Norwegians had taken up new positions north of the town.

JUDGE McDOWELL HEARS CRITES-PURINA ACTION

The court suit involving the Crites Oil Company and the Ralston Purina Company was being heard Wednesday in Common Pleas court by Judge George McDowell of Hillsboro.

The case originated when the Crites Oil Company filed a petition for an injunction against the Ralston Purina Company. In a transaction between the oil company and the milling firm, which involved land changes, the Crites Company reserved the right to build a pipe line to its spur track. The oil company maintains that the Purina Company did not leave enough room for the pipe line when it constructed an addition to its plant.

The case is being presented to the court without a jury.

Nazis Claim Big Victory; Many Canadians Taken

BERLIN, April 24—Using the same strategy that broke the back of the Polish army, German troops in Norway are tightening a pincers grip on British and Norwegian forces in the so-called Hamar-Elverum rectangle, Nazi military authorities asserted today.

In substantiation of claims that the Allies suffered a "crushing defeat" at Lillehammer yesterday, Nazi sources made known that several Junkers transport planes loaded with Canadian prisoners had landed in Berlin.

The prisoners were taken immediately to regional concentration camps, it was said.

In connection with the alleged Lillehammer defeat, the official German news agency DNB charged that special maps of Norway, printed by the British war office, had been seized. This was cited as "documentary proof" that the British had planned an invasion of Norway long before the German occupation.

The vast extent of the British defeat was portrayed in an official announcement claiming the capture of 20 machine-guns, six anti-tank guns and 1,000,000,000 rounds of infantry ammunition, the latter of British origin.

The same communique forecast a large-scale British troop landing attempt at German-held Narvik and announced the arrival of British naval reinforcements as well as troop transports off the Norwegian port.

Badly bombed and weakening under persistent Nazi hammerblows, the British are withdrawing further inland, German headquarters asserted, and presumably soon will find themselves surrounded in a pocket from which they cannot escape.

These circles declared that the same tactics are being utilized in Norway as those which triumphed in the Polish "blitzkrieg." In the North, the German army's task is an even easier one, it was asserted, the rough Norwegian terrain affording excellent opportunities for ambushes and traps.

The German idea is to lure the enemy inland from their coastal bases, then to bomb railway lines and bridges, cutting them off entirely from communications and supplies before "decimating" them with rifle and machine-gun fire.

The average age of the British troops is 26.

A large number of volunteers is still being accepted, the announcement declared. For every three men thus far conscripted, two volunteers have been enlisted. The British armies in France, the Middle East and Norway are being steadily augmented.

AKRON PICKETS HALT WORKERS AT RUBBER FIRM

AKRON, April 24—Pickets prevented all employees of the struck General Tire & Rubber Co., from going to work today with the exception of about six maintenance workers as the United Rubber Workers' local of the company charged the city with aiding in strike breaking.

With 700 members of the URW-CIO on the picket line, a squad of 75 patrolmen was rushed to the plant this morning when shifts of maintenance men changed.

The union charged that between 20 and 25 strike breakers were allowed to enter the plant on Monday under police guard and demanded that they leave the plant.

Until this morning about 100 office and maintenance employees had been allowed to pass through the picket line, but they were halted today and told to go home. The URW called a strike April 10 at the plant after conferences on a wage dispute failed.

PITTMAN CITES NEED OF ALLIES TO WIN QUICKLY

WASHINGTON, April 24—The Allies must drive the German army out of Norway within thirty days or face the inevitable loss of their war with Hitler, Sen. Key Pittman, chairman of the powerful senate foreign relations committee, declared today.

Pittman, in an interview, said that though he spoke as a "non-military expert," his opinion was shared by a majority of administration authorities.

Pittman expressed the deepest conviction that the United States will not be drawn into the second World War. If it ends, however, in a German victory, he believes the United States may face the menace of Nazi threats to the security of Central and South America.

"But," he declared, "you may tell the mothers and fathers of our country that they need not worry about their sons — the United States will stay out of this war."

On the Allied hopes of victory, Pittman said:

"Unless the Allies can chase the German army out of Norway, it will be almost impossible for them to win this war. And they must do it within thirty days."

OHIO MAYOR ENDS LIFE

MARIETTA, April 24 — Mayor Wilmer E. Pearson, 46, of Beverly, 36 miles north of Marietta, ended his life by inhaling carbon monoxide fumes from the exhaust of his automobile, sheriff's deputies reported today. Worries over a restaurant he owned were believed to have caused Pearson to take his life.

various points north of Trondheim for what may prove a battle of major proportions.

Allied advisers said that while the British and Norwegian forces had been compelled to give up some advanced positions, these losses were regarded as only temporary.

German planes were reported continuing widespread efforts to destroy Allied communications and thus check the British progress to the south. Details of the action reaching Stockholm were fragmentary because of these activities and because a snowstorm disrupted telephone communications between Norway and Finland.

Every report reaching Stockholm newspapers set the number of Allied troops in the region north of Trondheim at a different figure. It appeared, however, that about 17,000 British and French troops were there.

It was reported, meanwhile, that the Germans on the Hamar Front had reached Koppang, 50 miles to the north, and that British forces were racing down the Oesterdalen Valley entrance to block any further Nazi advance in this direction.

South of Trondheim the Allies were marching north to meet other German detachments which already have reached a point within 50 miles of Trondheim.

Scene of a major battle is expected to be a short distance north of Vaerdalen, situated some 40 miles northeast of Trondheim.

According to advisers here, the German troops are being supported by operations along the Norwegian coast and hold the initiative in the expected engagement.

Livestock Reached
(A British radio broadcast picked up by the Columbia Broadcasting System cited a report that the Allied forces have reached Leivanger, 35 miles north of Trondheim, and have encountered German troops there.)

Reports of an impending clash on land followed indications that a large-scale naval battle may still be progressing in the Skagerrak.

The roar of heavy guns was heard up and down the southwest coast of Sweden during the night.

Five German mine-sweepers, converted from captured Norwegian whalers, sailed into Swedish territorial waters near Stromstad. Warships of the Swedish neutrality patrol swiftly forced them out to sea again.

Residents of islands along the Swedish west coast reported sighting German planes speeding toward Norway, evidently carrying Nazi troop reinforcements.

While the situation at the northern port of Narvik remained unclear, with few developments there reported since the British threatened a major bombardment of the town, a Swedish army captain estimated that no less than 2,500 persons have been drowned in Narvik Harbor since the fighting first broke out there.

The captain, Haakon Moeller, who has just arrived in Stockholm, said that 35 ships have been sunk in Narvik Harbor. He declared 1,500 of the drowned were Germans from destroyers and transports, while the remainder were Norwegians, British and neutrals.

COUNTY ORATORICAL LOSS OF $39.49 IS REPORTED

The financial report of the Pickaway County oratorical contest conducted last Friday at New Holland discloses a loss of $39.49, bad weather cutting the crowd considerably. The receipts at the door totaled $23.60 while expenses amounted to $63.09.

The expenses, according to Superintendent G. D. McDowell, included $30 for judges, $10 to Harold Costlow, contest manager; $12.74 for a trophy; $5 for chair rental; $3.50 for program printing, and $1.55 in telephone calls.

In the event he seeks a third term. There was no candidate entered in the Republican presidential primary; the keystone state's G. O. P. votes will be initially cast for his favorite son, Gov. Arthur H. James.

Guffey's vote threatened Lawrence's hold on the Democratic state organization which he and Guffey jointly ruled until their break in the 1938 primary, when Guffey unsuccessfully bucked Lawrence with an opposition slate.

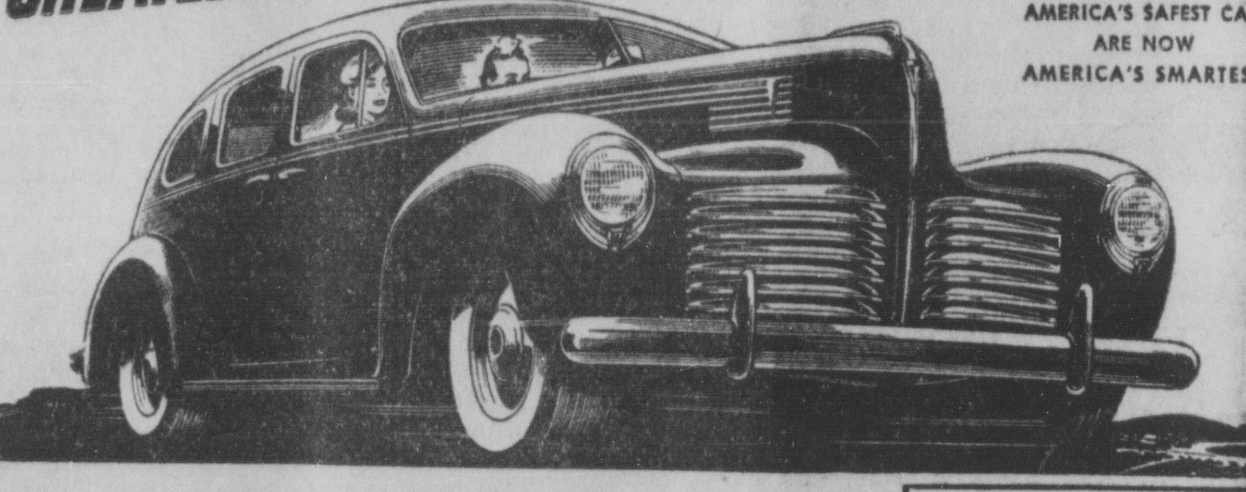

The Democrats lost, however, in the general election.

His evident victory today was achieved despite the refusal of the Democratic state committee to endorse him for re-election and the active opposition of most of the county chairmen in the state.

these Communists from their position of control." Dies stressed the fact that yesterday's witness before the committee presented figures to show that in the important CIO Transport Workers Union in New York, only five percent of the rank and file are Communists, while 90 percent of the leaders are party members.

This witness—Thomas Humphrey O'Shea, former TWU president and once a Communist himself—named the present president, Michael Quill, and many other of the union's officers, as Communists taking orders from the party. He said they had organized gun clubs to teach members to shoot, and were getting ready for "a complete revolutionary situation."

IMMORALITY AT DELAWARE GIRL SCHOOL CHARGED

COLUMBUS, April 24—Assistant State Welfare Director Herbert Mooney today admitted he had two affidavits charging immorality at the Delaware Girls' Industrial school. One, he said, was from a former inmate of the school and the other from a former male employee.

However, Mooney refused to make contents of the affidavits public. He said he expected a report from investigators Victor Monte and Walter Bellar within a day or two.

Charges that the school was being used as a "recruiting station" for a vice ring were brought to light with revelation that Monte and Bellar were in Delaware.

Asked if any charges would be made in the school's administration if the charges were proved, Mooney replied:

"If these things are true, there ought to be something done about it."

Previously, Mrs. Rose Beatty, superintendent of the school, denied the charges and countered with the allegation that Miss Elizabeth Fowler, housemother in one of the institution's cottages, "was out to get her job."

Miss Fowler was one of those who made the immorality charges to investigators Monte and Bellar, the assistant director said.

THEATRES

AT THE GRAND

Entertainment vastly different and more exciting than any ever before presented on the American theatrical stage, will be enjoyed by local theatregoers tonight when "Egyptian Follies" is presented on the stage at the Grand Theatre.

Currently on a coast-to-coast American tour, following its triumphant engagement at the Savoy theatre, London, where it thrilled all-time record-breaking crowds for five months, "Egyptian Follies" has been definitely labeled "the show of the year" by American critics.

Many of the stars and sensational production number in "Egyptian Follies" are already known to the American public as a result of news pictures and articles carried in Life, Look, Pic, Variety, The American Weekly and other national publications.

"Egyptian Follies" affords entertainment seekers a completely new and widely varied assortment of stage thrills, production spectacles and laugh-packed footlight antics, as well as a startling revue of feminine beauties in dance, parade and production specialties that leave nothing in want.

A fair impression of the magnitude of the production can be had from the fact a moving load of more than 11 tons of stage scenery, properties, cannons, tables, saws, stair cases, drops, scrims, curtains, acrobatic rigging, silks, and what-not, along with 19 trunks of costumes, musical instruments and a $2,500 Electric Organ are carried by the show.

Among the thrill specialties in production number featured in "Egyptian Follies" is Lady Godiva's illuminated ride astride a streamlined stallion and clad only in her golden tresses out over the heads of the audience; the 600-mile an hour human flight of pretty Louise Richter and "Enchanted Egypt."

On the screen in conjunction with the stage revue will be Jean Hersholt in "Courageous Dr. Christian."

Infant Deaths Topic Of County Health

According to figures recently issued by the Bureau of the Census, the infant mortality rate for continental United States was 51.6 in 1938, the lowest rate since the birth registration area was established in 1915 and undoubtedly the lowest in the history of the country.

The infant death rate is the number of deaths, under one year of age (per 1,000 live births). In 1915 the infant death rate for the entire registration area of the United States was 99.9. In 1920, it was 85.8, in 1925 it was 71.7, in 1930 it was 64.6, in 1935 it was 55.7 and in 1938 it was 51.0. (These are the rates for the U. S. as a whole.)

In studying the report for the individual states, many items of interest can be noted. In one state, the rate is still over 108, though it has decreased from 145 in 1930. The next highest rate for 1938 is 98.8 while all other states have rates over 60. The lowest rate is 36.3 although only six other states have a rate under 40. In 1938, Ohio's rate was 43.3 which had decreased from 82.9 in 1920. There were only 13 states with lower Infant Death Rates than Ohio in 1938.

These figures represent a great accomplishment in public health work during the last 25 years in reducing infant mortality. In many cities and in some whole states the death rate of children under one year of age has been reduced by one-half. The factors that have produced this result have been very numerous and cannot be enumerated separately. The most important are, probably, first, improvement in sanitation (particularly water and milk sanitation) and second, improvement in instruction of mother concerning the care and feeding of their babies.

The chief gains have been made in prevention of diarrhea disturbances and enteritis of infants, prevention of deaths from measles, diphtheria and other communicable diseases, improvement in the technique of infant feeding and promotion of a better standard of nutrition.

While the reduction in the number of deaths from diarrhea and enteritis have been very marked, the death rates for some other causes, such as premature birth, injury at birth and even bronchitis and pneumonia have been reduced very little during the past 25 years.

There are still hazards of birth and early infancy that are amenable to control and there are still groups of our population for which better facilities should be provided and greater efforts expended in the conservation of infant lives. The infant death rate can undoubtedly be reduced much further. It seems probable that this can be accomplished by doing better the things that are now well begun. Great gains may be made by prevention of accidents, more adequate prenatal care, the

ST. PAUL CHURCH DEDICATES NEW ORGAN AT RITES

Sunday, April 21, was a red letter day in the history of old St. Paul Congregation, Madison Township.

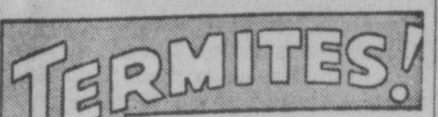

For the last thirty years a two manual Estey Reed Organ was used by the congregation. Sensing that this organ had rendered its best service, the congregation last summer voted to purchase a new organ. After considerable shopping around, the congregation decided on a Schantz Pipe Organ.

This organ was dedicated last Sunday by the pastor, the Rev. E. H. E. Winterhoff. Immediately following the dedicatory service, the organ, played by Dean Frederick C. Mayer, of Capital University Conservatory of Music, sounded hymn "Praise to the Lord, the Almighty, the King of Creation." The dedicatory sermon, "Sing Unto The Lord" was delivered by the pastor. The anthem "The Lord is My Shepherd" by Macfarren, was sung by the choir, directed by Miss Kathryn Baum, with Miss Ethel Baum at the organ.

A highlight of this service was the special recognition given Miss Baum who has served the congregation for 25 years as organist. Fitting tribute was paid Miss Baum by her pastor, who then presented her with a vase of 25 roses from the congregation and a life membership in the Women's Missionary Federation of the American Lutheran Church from the Ladies' Aid Society. The choir had previously presented Miss Baum with a gardenia corsage.

At the close of the morning elimination of diphtheria and reduction in deaths from measles, whooping cough and pneumonia. Dr. A. D. Blackburn.

In the afternoon another capacity crowd thronged into St. Paul Church to listen to an organ recital by Dean Mayer, assisted by his daughter, Miss Beth Mayer, violinist. Although no special effort was made to raise funds for the organ the collection for the day totaled $437.

Purloined Pearls!

WARREN William and Joan Perry, featured at the Cliftona Theatre in Columbia's "The Lone Wolf Strikes," are shown above admiring a string of pearls which provide the Lone Wolf with plenty of action. Desired by several gangs of jewel thieves, the pearls are stolen and re-stolen, with the Lone Wolf—or Mr. William if you prefer—successfully capturing them at last. Miss Perry is the rightful owner.

Mrs. Bus Bolender gave a theatre party for them Tuesday.

Mrs. Clara Ward Ashville and daughter Mrs. Lincoln Kuhns spent Wednesday visiting with them.

Wednesday evening Mr. and Mrs. Willard Bauer and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fuller entertained them at an elaborate dinner at their home in Bexley.

Thursday, Mrs. Sylvia Cly and daughter Frances, gave a dinner for them, other guests were Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Craiglow and daughter Agnes, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Judy, William Selig and Mrs. Bus Bolender.

Afterwards the entire family was welcomed at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leo H. Craiglow for a game of bridge and a late luncheon.

On Wednesday noon Leo Craiglow took the three brothers, Jack, George and William to the Hogshead club for dinner. Afterwards the entire body drove to Ashville to see old friends and renew memories of the past.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Selig and son, Jackie spent many happy hours with the couple.

Owing to pressing business, Mr. Selig had to start home Friday morning. They were accompanied by Mrs. G. H. Craiglow as far as Canton where they will spend a little time with George Craiglow Jr. and his family, before speeding homeward.

Infant Deaths Topic Of County Healthier

According to figures recently issued by the Bureau of the Census, the infant mortality rate for continental United States was 51.6 in 1938, the lowest rate since the birth registration area was established in 1915 and undoubtedly the lowest in the history of the country.

The infant death rate is the number of deaths, under one year of age (per 1,000 live births). In 1915 the infant death rate for the entire registration area of the United States was 99.9. In 1920, it was 85.8, in 1925 it was 71.7, in 1930 it was 64.6, in 1935 it was 55.7 and in 1938 it was 51.0. (These are the rates for the U. S. as a whole.)

In studying the report for the individual states, many items of interest can be noted. In one state, the rate is still over 108, though it has decreased from 145 in 1930. The next highest rate for 1938 is 98.8 while all other states have rates over 60. The lowest rate is 36.3 although only six other states have a rate under 40. In 1938, Ohio's rate was 43.3 which had decreased from 82.9 in 1920. There were only 13 states with lower Infant Death Rates than Ohio in 1938.

These figures represent a great accomplishment in public health work during the last 25 years in reducing infant mortality. In many cities and in some whole states the death rate of children under one year of age has been reduced by one-half. The factors that have produced this result have been very numerous and cannot be enumerated separately. The most important are, probably, first, improvement in sanitation (particularly water and milk sanitation) and second, improvement in instruction of mother concerning the care and feeding of their babies.

The chief gains have been made in prevention of diarrhea disturbances and enteritis of infants, prevention of deaths from measles, diphtheria and other communicable diseases, improvement in the technique of infant feeding and promotion of a better standard of nutrition.

While the reduction in the number of deaths from diarrhea and enteritis have been very marked, the death rates for some other causes, such as premature birth, injury at birth and even bronchitis and pneumonia have been reduced very little during the past 25 years.

There are still hazards of birth and early infancy that are amenable to control and there are still groups of our population for which better facilities should be provided and greater efforts expended in the conservation of infant lives. The infant death rate can undoubtedly be reduced much further. It seems probable that this can be accomplished by doing better the things that are now well begun. Great gains may be made by prevention of accidents, more adequate prenatal care, the elimination of diphtheria and reduction in deaths from measles, whooping cough and pneumonia.

OUR STAKE IN EAST INDIES
MOST Americans thought Secretary Hull's statement about the Dutch East Indies was fair and unwarlike. And though the region in question is far away, we ourselves have a present stake in its peace and security, aside from our general desire for international peace and honesty. The Dutch East Indies are pretty close to our Philippines, commanding the whole region to the southeast, south and southwest. Thus possession of the East Indies by any hostile power would make the Philippines untenable, for us or the Filipinos themselves.

SPORT FOR AMERICA
SPORT is civilization's substitute for war. It is mainly competition of an athletic nature, with definite rules and those rules adhered to. It is mostly a healthful procedure in itself; and if sportsmen do get hot under the collar occasionally, it still serves a useful purpose in controlling rivalries that might otherwise tend toward war. Maybe it's worth while to philosophize about this, as our baseball season is getting under way. Also to consider our heroes. To millions of people right now Bob Feller is a far bigger feller than Adolf Hitler. And certainly a more wholesome and useful one.

Which fact reminds us, by natural association, that the Japanese, whom we find it rather hard to get along with otherwise, love baseball, so the people's hearts must be all right even if their statesmen are not. They should get a couple of good leagues started and persuade the cabinet to attend the games.

NEW WORLD WOMEN
WHILE civil rights, and particularly those of women, grow more restricted over a large part of the world, they continue spreading in this hemisphere. The bill giving Quebec women the right to vote passed the final reading in the provincial House the other day. Thus one more large group of citizens is enfranchised. Women enjoy complete suffrage in the United States and in Brazil, Cuba, El Salvador and Uruguay. In several other Latin American countries the movement for equal suffrage is well advanced. And even where they do not vote, the history of the American republics records many instances of women serving the government in some capacity, administering schools and hospitals, even being elected as mayors in a number of states. In fact, whether enfranchised or not, the women of the New World are alert to the public welfare and active in its service.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

DO OUR 48 states show a tendency toward developing into 48 separate countries? If they do, we shan't admit that they've done so, of course. Nevertheless Senator C. O'Mahoney's so-called monopoly committee was solemnly warned by expert witnesses the other day that they do show such a tendency—in effect. By the way, it's quite incorrect to term that O'Mahoney outfit a "monopoly investigating committee." Its real purpose is to figure out, if it can, what's the matter, if anything, with our national economies in general—not to deal with monopolies in particular. Anyhow, it's widely agreed that the United States, in the main, has been pretty prosperous, as compared with most of the rest of the world. And even high tariff protectionists admit that its prosperity probably has been largely due to the fact that it's been the most extensive single free trade area on earth.

STATE TAX BARRIERS
But in recent years many states have adopted policies of erecting tax barriers to exclude other states' goods from their various individual markets. They don't concede that they're protective tariffs (that would be federally unconstitutional) but that's what they amount to. There's been some complaint about it, and a little less of it in

Daily Washington Merry-Go-Round

BY DREW PEARSON AND ROBERT S. ALLEN
DIPLOMATS WATCH APRIL 30 SAILING
WASHINGTON—Allied diplomats, who momentarily expect Italy to enter the war, have figured out a definite clue to give them warning. It is the Italian luxury liner Rex. Obviously Mussolini does not want to lose her. So if the Rex sails from Genoa on April 30, Italy will not enter the war for at least another two weeks. But if the Rex remains in port after the time of her scheduled sailing, then Mussolini will fight on the side of Hitler.

NOTE—Most significant kiss since Biblical days may have been given by an officer of the Rex when he bade good-bye to his New York sweet heart last week. Intelligence officers, who don't miss little things, reported that he bade her a final farewell.

EUROPE'S TIME BOMB
A flood of important diplomatic dispatches have been coming in from the Mediterranean—all of them discouraging. Briefly summarized, it looks as if the dictators are ready to apply the squeeze to the Allies on several fronts—from Gibraltar to the Black Sea.

IN SPAIN—Dictator Franco suddenly has come to life and is concentrating troops near Gibraltar, symbol of the might of the British Empire. All indications are that when the time is ripe (probably in concert with the other dictators) he will move onto the giant Rock.

IN ALBANIA—Dictator Mussolini has rushed large detachments of men and they are now feverishly building roads from the Adriatic to Macedonia. This would permit Italy to cut through to Salonika, thereby block Greece from the rest of the world.

IN JUGOSLAVIA—Mussolini is reported ready to seize the Dalmatian coast, and help the Croats become independent of the Serbs. An "independent" Croatia under Italian "protection" is reported to be one of the bribes Hitler offered Mussolini.

IN RUMANIA—Dictator Stalin long has been ready to pounce on Bessarabia, also Hungary on Transylvania and Germany on Rumanian oil wells.

This huge squeeze play is reported to be all set for Hitler to give the signal—presumably by the occupation of Holland or an attack on the Maginot Line.

WILL YOU, MR. PRESIDENT?
The nation's smartest newspaper editors gathered at the White House last week, peppering Roosevelt with off-the-record questions. But the biggest of all political questions they left unasked: "Will Roosevelt run for a third term?" Next day newspaper accounts said they asked it, but they didn't—probably because they figured Roosevelt was sure not to answer. Undoubtedly they were right. However, it was paradoxical that those very, very close to the presidential desk last week got the most definite impression gained so far that the President is going to run.

Fixing the Blame In Cancer Deaths

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.
IF CANCER were personified as a public enemy and tried in each case of death as a defendant, it would probably be surprising to find how often a fair-minded jury would discharge it as not guilty. It is not so much cancer itself that is responsible for the calamity, but the ignorance and carelessness, neglect and dilatoriness on the part of the person who has what might be an early cancer.

Such imaginary trials have been recounted by Dr. Russell S. Ferguson, of the New York State Cancer Commission. In one case "a good friend" advised Mrs. B. not to undergo an unnecessary operation but to take some serum injections, against her doctor's advice. The verdict of the jury was that Mrs. B. was slain by good intentions.

Ignorance and Neglect
In another trial, the doctor said, "I advised Mr. A. when the ulcer on the skin of the face was still small and harmless to have it eradicated, but he refused all treatment. When I was called two years later, his condition was beyond medical help." The jury's verdict was that Mr. A. died of ignorance and neglect.

The doctor said in the case of Mrs. D., "I attended her at childbirth and afterwards called attention to an injury and advised her to undergo a simple operation. She ignored my advice." The jury's verdict was that neglect and fear were the real culprits.

These stories indicate that the most important thing for the public to know is the natural history of cancer. A cancer consists of the sudden growth of cells in a certain place in the body. What makes these cells start to grow we do not know. It is not contagion or infection because another person can be exposed to them without ever catching cancer.

Before deciding which you will try, weigh them against each other as to probability of success, but don't let your thinking end there. One, who was set, won the first trick in his own hand, dropped trumps, led toward the heart K, West winning his A and returning a second club to the A. This declarer then discarded a club on the heart K and lost the diamond finesse, being down one.

William J. Huske, canny veteran, won the first trick with the club K, laid down his spade K, then switched so as to save the spade A for a dummy entry. He led the heart 4, West winning and returning a spade to the Q. Mr. Huske then led to the club A, dropped a club on the heart K, ruffed a third club with the spade J, setting up the thirteenth, led to the spade A and on the last club discarded the diamond J. Note that, if East or West had held four clubs, the diamond finesse would still have remained for another chance to prevent a loser in that suit.

THE KILLER SPEAKS
RICHARD HOUGHTON
WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE
ON MY way to the Markham home I stopped at the police station. "Has that fellow William Calla been brought in yet?" I asked.
"He ought to be in here any minute," the sergeant informed me, squinting up at the clock. "Could I talk with him?"
He shook his head. "I don't think so."
"Couldn't George Markham and I talk with him, if there were some of the police with us?"
"Oh, I guess that can be arranged."
"Thanks. Will you give me a ring at the Markham place?"
"Sure."
My plans were still a little hazy, but they began to take shape in my mind as I called a cab. All depended on how willing the captive would be to talk. Perhaps I knew enough to make him talk.
Louise met me at her door. "Bill! I saw you arrive," she said. "The police just telephoned. They have the man you were trying to capture last night!"
"Yes, I know." The hope in her eyes troubled me. I almost wished Calla had escaped, now that I realized how dangerous he was to her future happiness. "I came to get your brother to go to the police station with me and question him."
"May I go, too?"
I shook my head. "No, I'm afraid not, Louise."
At that moment George appeared behind his sister. I explained what I wanted.
"Be right with you," he said. He got his coat. A moment later we climbed into the Markham car. Louise waved good-bye. I wondered if I had hurt her feelings. Perhaps I should have made some sort of explanation—but it could not have been the true one.
We found three men in the police chief's private office. William Calla stood a head taller than his captor beside him. Handcuffs had been snapped on his wrists and he was strangely subdued. His chin had sunk low and he was looking at the desk, not at the chief, who was speaking.
"—and so," said the chief, tapping the top of the desk with a pencil as he looked at the prisoner, "this time you are going up for a long stretch. We have the goods on you."
Then he noticed us. "Oh, hello there, Mr. Markham and Mr. Strickland. So you want a few words with our prize exhibit here? I'd like to listen in."
"Certainly," I agreed. "I just want to ask him what he knows about dope peddling."
"He knows plenty. We've suspected him of that game for a long time—a sort of side line for his bootlegging. Or maybe the bootlegging was just a blind to cover up the dope peddling. We planted men who knew him at two piers in San Francisco this morning. They pretended they were drug addicts and begged him for some of the stuff when he went on board. We figured he'd have some left and would be glad to get rid of it as he left the country. We were right. One of our men tricked him into a sale—and nabbed him. Now he's going up for a long stretch—the limit."
I addressed myself to the prisoner. "Then you might as well answer a few questions," I told him. "You can't be in any worse fix than you are already. Ever see this before?"
I passed him the slip of paper that had been found in the sack he had tied over my head. I held it so that my finger pointed to the date, "May 16, 11 P. M."
"He shook his head."
"Come on," I advised him. "Although the police are going the limit with you on the dope charge, there's another charge that I could bring against you. I might forget it, though, if you'll come across with what you know. Ever see this before?"
"I guess I must have dropped it," he growled. "It's one of my order slips, all right."
"And does it mean that you were going to meet Alfred Markham the night of May 16 to sell him narcotics?"
George Markham gasped. "What are you saying? What do you mean?"
Calla nodded. "Yeh, he was one of my regular customers," he admitted. "But the night of May 16 he came to me—down to my house on Cleaves street."
"I don't believe it!" cried the brother of the slain man. "Alfred was one of the finest, straightest... You're lying to us!"
"Oh, you high hats are no better than the rest of us," snarled Calla, lifting his head. "I can prove what I say. Sure he bought the dope off me. He bought it regular. He was going to get some more the night he was killed. That was why I went there. He was supposed to meet me."
I interrupted, trying to make the blow as easy for George as I could. "He wasn't as bad as most of your other customers, was he?"
"Maybe not. He went without it for quite a while sometimes. But he always came back."
George Markham groaned. He sank into a chair, and his head bent forward into his hands.
I went to him and put a hand on his shoulder. "Don't take it so hard," I advised gently. "People have the wrong idea about this sort of thing. It's a disease, not a habit. Your brother was more to be pitied than blamed."
"But—but, I can't understand it." He looked up at me with tragedy in his eyes.
"It probably began in the hospital after his accident," I explained. "They had to keep him drugged to kill his pain. Afterward he took drugs to prevent a recurrence of the torture. Finally, deprivation of the drugs themselves tortured him. It was a vicious circle. He was the helpless victim. That was why he was so interested in drug addicts—why he wanted to help them. He knew they were not to blame."
"But—but you know what a quiet sort of person he was. He wasn't nervous. He was a perfect gentleman. I—I can't believe what you say!"
"The drug wouldn't affect his conduct, except at the time he was suffering for lack of it," I explained. "He wasn't an addict in the sense of taking drugs to forget the world. For him they were a medicine he had to have. And if you question his friends you will discover that he did have nervous spells. You forget that you have been away from home most of the time for the past several years."
The chief coughed. "I'm afraid Mr. Strickland is right. This gives an entirely new angle to the case. We'd better not discuss it any more, right now. It will all come out when Jerry Montcalm comes up for trial."
"Oh, but it mustn't!" gasped George Markham, leaping to his feet. "I'll withdraw my charges against Mr. Montcalm. This mustn't come out. The shock would kill my sister!"
The chief was quiet but firm. "Sorry," he said, "but I'm afraid there is nothing that can be done about it now. The trial will have to be held—and this will have to come out at the trial."
"The trial hasn't been set yet," I reminded him. "Jerry is only up for preliminary examination this morning."
"That's right, but there's no doubt he will be held for superior court. Someone else will swear to the warrant, if Mr. Markham objects to doing it himself."

OUR STAKE IN EAST INDIES

MOST Americans thought Secretary Hull's statement about the Dutch East Indies was fair and unwarlike. And though the region in question is far away, we ourselves have a present stake in its peace and security, aside from our general desire for international peace and honesty.

The Dutch East Indies are pretty close to our Philippines, commanding the whole region to the southeast, south and southwest. Thus possession of the East Indies by any hostile power would make the Philippines untenable, for us or the Filipinos themselves.

SPORT FOR AMERICA

SPORT is civilization's substitute for war. It is mainly competition of an athletic nature, with definite rules and those rules adhered to. It is mostly a healthful procedure in itself; and if sportsmen do get hot under the collar occasionally, it still serves a useful purpose in controlling rivalries that might otherwise tend toward war.

Maybe it's worth while to philosophize about this, as our baseball season is getting under way. Also to consider our heroes. To millions of people right now Bob Feller is a far bigger feller than Adolf Hitler.

And certainly a more wholesome and useful one.

Which fact reminds us, by natural association, that the Japanese, whom we find it rather hard to get along with otherwise, love baseball, so the people's hearts must be all right even if their statesmen are not. They should get a couple of good leagues started and persuade the cabinet to attend the games.

NEW WORLD WOMEN

WHILE civil rights, and particularly those of women, grow more restricted over a large part of the world, they continue spreading in this hemisphere. The bill giving Quebec women the right to vote passed the final reading in the provincial House the other day. Thus one more large group of citizens is enfranchised.

Women enjoy complete suffrage in the United States and in Brazil, Cuba, El Salvador and Uruguay. In several other Latin American countries the movement for equal suffrage is well advanced. And even where they do not vote, the history of the American republics records many instances of women serving the government in some capacity, administering schools and hospitals, even being elected as mayors in a number of states.

In fact, whether enfranchised or not, the women of the New World are alert to the public welfare and active in its service.

WORLD AT A GLANCE

—By—
Charles F. Stewart

DO OUR 48 states show a tendency toward developing into 48 separate countries? If they do, we shan't admit that they've done so, of course. Nevertheless Senator C. O'Mahoney's so-called monopoly committee was solemnly warned by expert witnesses the other day that they do show such a tendency—in effect.

By the way, it's quite incorrect to term that O'Mahoney outfit a "monopoly investigating committee." Its real purpose is to figure out, if it can, what's the matter, if anything, with our national economies in general—not to deal with monopolies in particular.

Anyhow, it's widely agreed that the United States, in the main, has been pretty prosperous, as compared with most of the rest of the world. And even high tariff protectionists admit that its prosperity probably has been largely due to the fact that it's been the most extensive single free trade area on earth.

STATE TAX BARRIERS

But in recent years many states have adopted policies of erecting tax barriers to exclude other states' goods from their various individual markets. They don't concede that they're protective tariffs (that would be federally unconstitutional) but that's what they amount to.

There's been some complaint about it, and a little less of it in the last year than previously. Still, it's quite prevalent yet.

It's a system against which a warning, has just been sounded, before the O'Mahoney committee, by several first-rate authorities—notably Executive Secretary Frank Bane of the Council of State Governments and Dr. F. Eugene Melder, Clark university economist.

Senator O'Mahoney's committee is described as "temporary." Drs. Bane and Melder think it ought to be made "permanent."

They want internal tariffs abolished.

"ME FIRST" ATTITUDE

Dr. Bane goes farther than that. To be sure, internal tariffs are his principal grievance, but he points also to the inclination of each state to solve its local problems at the expense of all other states. For instance, state No. 1 reasons that it has to have help from the other 47 states. Each of the other 47 claims its share (or more than its fair share) from state No. 1.

Consequently, asserts Dr. Bane, individual states (trying to flim-flam other states) demand federal legislation of a properly purely state-wide character.

Moreover, they get it, by a process of swapping off votes on Capitol hill—thus getting federal legislation on purely intra-state issues.

On the opposite hand, the federal government, trying to regulate its payments to the various states, undertakes to tell said states what to do in connection with intra-state management—in violation of state's rights.

IT'S ALL GUMMED UP

In this fashion, Dr. Bane's thesis is that federal and state relationships are getting all gummed up.

He not only wants Senator O'Mahoney's committee to straighten them out—he wants a permanent organization to KEEP them straightened out. He asks the O'Mahoney organization to sponsor such a body. The United States supreme court is supposed to attend to the job, but Dr. Bane's story is that the supreme court is not now either rapid or thorough enough to do it.

Dr. Melder's testimony implies that he agrees.

Of course, Drs. Bane and Melder don't maintain that the United States necessarily will split up into 48 separate countries; there may be some groups—eight or 10 or more of 'em.

And they won't formally separate themselves.

However, the two doctors foresee a gradual splitting up (not political immediately but economic) unless the current trend is counteracted.

The two doctors want that tendency fought.

DIPLOMATS WATCH APRIL 30 SAILING

WASHINGTON—Allied diplomats, who momentarily expect Italy to enter the war, have figured out a definite clue to give them warning. It is the Italian luxury liner Rex. Obviously Mussolini does not want to lose her.

So if the Rex sails from Genoa on April 30, Italy will not enter the war for at least another two weeks. But if the Rex remains in port after the time of her scheduled sailing, then Mussolini will fight on the side of Hitler.

NOTE—Most significant kiss since Biblical days may have been given by an officer of the Rex when he bade good-bye to his New York sweetheart last week. Intelligence officers, who don't miss little things, reported that he bade her a final farewell.

EUROPE'S TIME BOMB

A flood of important diplomatic dispatches have been coming in from the Mediterranean—all of them discouraging.

Briefly summarized, it looks as if the dictators are ready to apply the squeeze to the Allies on several fronts—from Gibraltar to the Black Sea.

IN SPAIN—Dictator Franco suddenly has come to life and is concentrating troops near Gibraltar, symbol of the might of the British Empire. All indications are that when the time is ripe (probably in concert with the other dictators) he will move onto the giant Rock.

IN ALBANIA—Dictator Mussolini has rushed large detachments of men and they are now feverishly building roads from the Adriatic to Macedonia. This would permit Italy to cut through to Salonika, thereby block Greece from the rest of the world.

IN JUGOSLAVIA—Mussolini is reported ready to seize the Dalmatian coast, and help the Croats become independent of the Serbs. An "independent" Croatia under Italian "protection" is reported to be one of the bribes Hitler offered Mussolini.

IN RUMANIA—Dictator Stalin long has been ready to pounce on Bessarabia, also Hungary on Transylvania and Germany on Rumanian oil wells.

This huge squeeze play is reported to be all set for Hitler to give the signal—presumably by the occupation of Holland or an attack on the Maginot Line.

WILL YOU, MR. PRESIDENT?

The nation's smartest newspaper editors gathered at the White House last week, peppering Roosevelt with off-the-record questions.

But the biggest of all political questions they left unasked: "Will Roosevelt run for a third term?" Next day newspaper accounts said they asked it, but they didn't—probably because they figured Roosevelt was sure not to answer.

Undoubtedly they were right. However, it was paradoxical that those very, very close to the presidential desk last week got the most definite impression gained so far that the President is going to run.

Fixing the Blame In Cancer Deaths

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IF CANCER were personified as a public enemy and tried in each case of death as a defendant, it would probably be surprising to find how often a fair-minded jury would discharge it as not guilty. It is not so much cancer itself that is responsible for the calamity, but the ignorance and carelessness, neglect and dilatoriness on the part of the person who has what might be an early cancer.

Such imaginary trials have been recounted by Dr. Russell S. Ferguson, of the New York State Cancer Commission. In one case "a good friend" advised Mrs. B. not to undergo an unnecessary operation but to take some serum injections, against her doctor's advice. The verdict of the jury was that Mrs. B. was slain by good intentions.

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Ignorance and Neglect

In another trial, the doctor said, "I advised Mr. A. when the ulcer on the skin of the face was still small and harmless to have it eradicated, but he refused all treatment. When I was called two years later, his condition was beyond medical help." The jury's verdict was that Mr. A. died of ignorance and neglect.

The doctor said in the case of Mrs. D., "I attended her at childbirth and afterwards called attention to an injury and advised her to undergo a simple operation. She ignored my advice." The jury's verdict was that neglect and fear were the real culprits.

These stories indicate that the most important thing for the public to know is the natural history of cancer.

A cancer consists of the sudden growth of cells in a certain place in the body. What makes these cells start to grow we do not know. It is not contagion or infection because another person can be exposed to them without ever catching cancer.

An old theory was that they were embryonal rests, that is to say, very young cells which remained in a public enemy and tried in each case of death as a defendant, it would probably be surprising to find how often a fair-minded jury would discharge it as not guilty. It is not so much cancer itself that is responsible for the calamity, but the ignorance and carelessness, neglect and dilatoriness on the part of the person who has what might be an early cancer.

CHAPTER FORTY-ONE

ON MY way to the Markham home I stopped at the police station. "Has that fellow William Calla been brought in yet?" I asked.

"He ought to be in here any minute," the sergeant informed me, squinting up at the clock.

"Could I talk with him?"

He shook his head. "I don't think so."

"Couldn't George Markham and I talk with him, if there were some of the police with us?"

"Oh, I guess that can be arranged."

"Thanks. Will you give me a ring at the Markham place?"

"Sure."

My plans were still a little hazy, but they began to take shape in my mind as I called a cab. All depended on how willing the captive would be to talk. Perhaps I knew enough to make him talk.

Louise met me at her door. "Bill! I saw you arrive," she said. "The police just telephoned. They have the man you were trying to capture last night."

"I know." The hope in her eyes troubled me. I almost wished Calla had escaped, now that I realized how dangerous he was to her future happiness. "I came to get your brother to go to the police station with me and question him."

"May I go, too?"

I shook my head. "No, I'm afraid not, Louise."

At that moment George appeared behind his sister. I explained what I wanted.

"Be right with you," he said. He got his coat. A moment later we climbed into the Markham car. Louise waved goodbye. I wondered if I had hurt her feelings. Perhaps I should have made some sort of explanation—but it could not have been the true one.

We found three men in the police chief's private office. William Calla stood a head taller than his captor beside him. Handcuffs had been snapped on his wrists and he was strangely subdued. His chin had sunk low and he was looking at the desk, not at the chief, who was speaking.

"—and so," said the chief, tapping the top of the desk with a pencil as he looked at the prisoner, "this time you are going up for a long stretch. We have the goods on you."

Then he noticed us. "Oh, hello there, Mr. Markham and Mr. Strickland. So you want a few words with our prize exhibit here? I'd like to listen in."

"Certainly," I agreed. "I just want to ask him what he knows about dope peddling."

"He knows plenty. We've suspected him of that game for a long time—a sort of side line for his bootlegging. Or maybe the bootlegging was just a blind to cover up the dope peddling. We planted men who knew him at two piers in San Francisco this morning. They pretended they were drug addicts and begged him for some of the stuff when he went on board. We figured he'd have some left and would be glad to get rid of it as he left the country. We were right. One of our men tricked him into a sale—and nabbed him. Now he's going up for a long stretch—the limit."

I addressed myself to the prisoner. "Then you might as well answer a few questions," I told him. "You can't be in any worse fix than you are already. Ever see this before?"

I passed him the slip of paper that had been found in the sack he had tied over my head. I held it so that my finger pointed to the date, "May 16, 11 P. M."

"He shook his head.

"Come on," I advised him. "Although the police are going the limit with you on the dope charge, there's another charge that I could bring against you. I might forget it, though, if you'll come across with what you know. Ever see this before?"

"I guess I must have dropped it," he growled. "It's one of my order slips, all right."

"And does it mean that you were going to meet Alfred Markham the night of May 16 to sell him narcotics?"

George Markham gasped. "What are you saying? What do you mean?"

Calla nodded. "Yeh, he was one of my regular customers," he admitted. "But the night of May 16 he came to me—down to my house on Cleaves street."

"I don't believe it!" cried the brother of the slain man. "Alfred was one of the finest, straightest, . . . You're lying to us!"

"Oh, you high hats are no better than the rest of us," snarled Calla, lifting his head. "I can prove what I say. Sure he bought the dope off me. He bought it regular. He was going to get some more the night he was killed. That was why I went there. He was supposed to meet me."

I interrupted, trying to make the blow as easy for George as I could. "He wasn't as bad as most of your—your other customers, was he?"

"Maybe not. He went without it for quite a while sometimes. But he always came back."

George Markham groaned. He sank into a chair, and his head bent forward into his hands.

I went to him and put a hand on his shoulder. "Don't take it so hard," I advised gently. "People have the wrong idea about this sort of thing. It's a disease, not a habit. Your brother was more to be pitied than blamed."

"But—but, I can't understand it." He looked up at me with tragedy in his eyes.

"It probably began in the hospital after his accident," I explained. "They had to keep him drugged to kill his pain. Afterward he took drugs to prevent a recurrence of the torture. Finally, deprivation of the drugs themselves tortured him. It was a vicious circle. He was the helpless victim. That was why he was so interested in drug addicts—why he wanted to help them. He knew they were not to blame."

"But—but you know what a quiet sort of person he was. He wasn't nervous. He was a perfect gentleman. I—I can't believe what you say!"

"The drug wouldn't affect his conduct, except at the time he was suffering for lack of it," I explained. "He wasn't an addict in the sense of taking drugs to forget the world. For him they were a medicine he had to have. And if you question his friends you will discover that he did have nervous spells. You forget that you have been away from home most of the time for the past several years."

The chief coughed. "I'm afraid Mr. Strickland is right. This gives an entirely new angle to the case. We'd better not discuss it any more, right now. It will all come out when Jerry Montcalm comes up for trial."

"Oh, but it mustn't!" gasped George Markham, leaping to his feet. "I'll withdraw my charges against Mr. Montcalm. This mustn't come out. The shock would kill my sister!"

The chief was quiet but firm. "Sorry," he said, "but I'm afraid there is nothing that can be done about it now. The trial will have to be held—and this will have to come out at the trial."

"The trial hasn't been set yet," I reminded him. "Jerry is only up for preliminary examination this morning."

"That's right, but there's no doubt he will be held for superior court. Someone else will swear to the warrant, if Mr. Markham objects to doing it himself."

Saltcreek PTA Closes Year With Election

200 In Gathering Secretary Makes Annual Report

Two hundred were present for the last meeting of the year when Saltcreek Township Parent-Teacher Association met Tuesday in the school auditorium. Following the report of the nominating committee, Mrs. Lawrence Spencer was elected president; Mrs. George Rihl, vice president; Mrs. Fred Strous, treasurer and Miss Margaret Chilcote, secretary.

Mrs. Spencer presided during the business hour when Miss Jeanette Hockman, Russell Anderson and Mrs. Omer Judy, the nominating committee, submitted its slate.

The interesting program arranged by Miss Florence Jenkins, Mrs. J. E. Roberts and Miss Chilcote opened with a "Welcome" by Lois Defenbaugh and Leslie Hawk. "The Flower Parade", a colorful spring pageant in three scenes, was delightfully presented by pupils of the first and second grades.

Miss Marilyn Smith of South Bloomingville played a piano solo. This was followed by a sketch, "The Flowers Teach Tommy a Lesson", with the pupils of the third and fourth grades taking part.

John McRoberts recited, "The Rabbit". Members of the third and fourth grades then took part in a playlet, "The Song of the Vegetable Plate".

The solo, "South of the Border", by Glenn Hartaugh completed the excellent entertainment. Maynard Campbell, secretary, in his general report of the PTA for the school year, 1939-1940, revealed that the total attendance at the eight meetings of the association had been 1,625; the association included 91 members; the expenses had been $42.53, leaving a balance of $46.80; with a possible teachers' attendance at the series meeting of 72, the eight faculty members showed an attendance of 71; four officers with a possible attendance of 32, showed a score of 29; members on committees numbered 61 and 215 took part in the various programs of the year.

A committee was appointed to contact the officers of the Alumni Association of the school in regard to serving the annual banquet at the school building. This committee is comprised of Mrs. Omer Judy, Mrs. Thomas Hockman, Mrs. Virginia Minshall and Mrs. Dora Reichelderfer.

Homer Hartsough, Elmer Strous and Lowell Chase comprised the committee which served delightful refreshments at the close of the business hour.

Scioto Valley Grange
About 100 subordinate and juvenile grangers were present for the interesting variety program of Scioto Valley Grange Tuesday in the grange hall north of Ashville.

The highlights of the meeting were the talks of Lewis Aiken of Lockbourne, Franklin County, and Mrs. Mabel Robertson of Columbus, Mr. Aiken addressing the men of the grange while Mrs. Robertson spoke to the women in divided session. Mr. Aiken, a grower of hybrid seed corn, discussed the production of this important grain. Mrs. Robertson in her home hints for the women, discussed new ideas in interior decorating; demonstrated wall cleaning and gave a splendid demonstration of an electric iron.

Mrs. Arthur Boone, who with Mr. Boone has just returned after a trip through the South, presented an enjoyable talk concerning the places they visited and exhibited

STARS SAY—

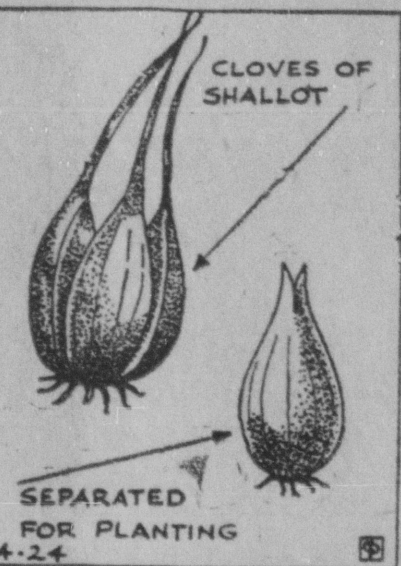

For Wednesday, April 24

THIS should be a day of brilliant performance, with the spirit of initiative and enterprise under high mental stimuli for much progressive work. This may operate in the field of promotion, advertising, publishing, trading or in highly-creative literary output. Cooperation with groups of a social, humanitarian, educational or political nature, where propaganda or the moulding of public opinion is involved, may enjoy surprising success. But be careful with funds and ready for trivial disappointments or setbacks, perhaps due to health.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of splendid accomplishment, especially in fields where excellent creative ability, or shrewd talents in writings, publicity, promotion or commercial campaigns demanding sagacity and originality, are exercised. Shallots, so popular in England, are also growing in popularity in this country. Nowadays one often sees them mentioned in recipes and listed upon menus. Since shallots are milder in taste than their cousins, the onion, many people would use them if they knew they could grow their own.

As shown in today's Garden-Graph, the parent bulb of the shallot grows in "cloves." The political character should thrive, if finances are wisely handled and there are no impediments due to health depressions.

A child born on this day may be versatile, brilliant and a profound thinker, although possibly high-strung and volatile. It should have a successful career, perhaps in literature.

"cloves should be separated before planting. In England, the shallot bulbs are planted by merely pushing them into the soil to half their depth. In this country most people plant them in drills 2 inches deep in the same manner that onion sets are planted.

When the tops wither the shallots are mature and should be dug up. Allow them to dry in the sun before storing.

Look first at the things which make the earliest start—peonies, iris, the early bulbs among the flowers, asparagus and rhubarb in the kitchen garden. Clean up lightly around these, but be careful not to injure their starting bulbs.

The ground cover plants such as English ivy, myrtle, pachysandra, and the evergreen euonymous, should be cut back to force new growth if you find they have been damaged by the winter.

To secure the best results from Japanese anemones, separate them each spring.

Perennials which are subject to fungus disease, such as hollyhocks, phloxes, foxgloves, delphiniums and aconites, should have a dusting with dry Bordeaux powder as soon as growth starts. This treatment should be repeated at ten-day or two-week intervals.

Following the report of the nominating committee, Mrs. Lawrence Spencer was elected president; Mrs. George Ruhl, vice president; Mrs. Fred Strous, treasurer and Miss Margaret Chilcote, secretary.

Mrs. Spencer presided during the business hour when Miss Jeanette Hockman, Russell Anderson and Mrs. Omer Judy, the nominating committee, submitted its slate.

The interesting program arranged by Miss Florence Jenkins, Mrs. J. E. Roberts and Miss Chilcote opened with a "Welcome" by Lois Defenbaugh and Leslie Hawk. "The Flower Parade", a colorful spring pageant in three scenes, was delightfully presented by pupils of the first and second grades.

Miss Marilyn Smith of South Bloomingville played a piano solo. This was followed by a sketch, "The Flowers Teach Tommy a Lesson", with the pupils of the third and fourth grades taking part. John McRoberts recited, "The Rabbit". Members of the third and fourth grades then took part in a playlet, "The Song of the Vegetable Plate".

The solo, "South of the Border", by Glenn Hartsough completed the excellent entertainment.

Maynard Campbell, secretary, in his general report of the PTA for the school year, 1939-1940, revealed that the total attendance at the eight meetings of the association had been 1,625; the association included 91 members; the expenses had been $42.53, leaving a balance of $46.80; with a possible teachers' attendance at the series meeting of 72, the eight faculty members showed an attendance of 71; four officers with a possible attendance of 32, showed a score of 29; members on committees numbered 61 and 215 took part in the various programs of the year.

A committee was appointed to contact the officers of the Alumni Association of the school in regard to serving the annual banquet at the school building. This committee is comprised of Mrs. Omer Judy, Mrs. Thomas Hockman, Mrs. Virginia Minshall and Mrs. Dora Reichelderfer.

Homer Hartsough, Elmer Strous and Lowell Chase comprised the committee which served delightful refreshments at the close of the business hour.

After the opening of chapter, Mrs. E. L. Price, secretary, read invitations to inspections at Waverly Friday, April 26, and Jeffersonville Thursday, May 2. Miss Valentine reminded the chapter that all Eastern Star members had been requested to purchase brooms this year from the blind broom makers of the state and said that the secretary would take orders for them.

The ritualistic initiatory degrees were impressively exemplified by the officers on two visiting candidates.

Following the close of chapter, a social hour was enjoyed in the dining room, and refreshments were served by the committee of which Mrs. N. E. Reichelderfer was chairman. Her assistants included Mrs. Robert Denman, Mrs. Charles Naumann, Miss Eloise Hilliard, Mrs. Fred Moeller, Mrs. F. K. Blair, Mrs. Earl Price, Mrs. E. L. Tolbert and Mrs. Sterling Lamb.

BARRETT'S BALK SENDS KANSAS CITY TO VICTORY

COLUMBUS, April 23—The Kansas City Blues served notice on other teams in the American Association today that they were out after another league pennant. Behind the six-hit pitching of Haley and Stanceau, the Blues yesterday inflicted the third straight loss on the Columbus Red Birds, 3 to 2. Kansas City now leads the league with three wins against one defeat.

The Blues had to come from behind to win, scoring one run in seventh frame and another in the eighth on a balk by Red Bird hurler Francis "Red" Barrett. In the only other American Association game played, Milwaukee shutout Toledo at the latter city, 1 to 0. Frank Makosky allowed the Mudhens only four hits.

Move To End Conflicts In School Events Gains

By Russell Fuller

COLUMBUS, April 24—A relay Association to be formed among Ohio High Schools and towns sponsoring spring track relays was suggested today by High School Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend. Although pointing out there was nothing he could do toward organizing such a setup, Townsend said he had approached several persons with the idea.

Such a group, Townsend explained, could meet once or twice a year and set dates for various Relays in order to avoid conflicts such as arise this Saturday when four Relays, to which Ohio teams have been invited, are on the docket.

The Mansfield and Delaware Relays, the two largest meets, are carded for Saturday. As well, Ohio schools have been asked to compete in the Relays at Huntington and Wheeling, W. Va., this week.

Mansfield has already moved to avoid repetition of the conflict next year. But the commissioner opined that a Relay Association would work to the best interest of all concerned, especially in view of the fact that more and more schools are planning to have their own Relays. Ohio Relays, in many instances, are backed by merchants imbued with civic pride.

Along an entirely different line, the commissioner declared that repeated postponements of high school spring track, golf, tennis and baseball contests undoubtedly would affect performances in the state meets in those sports late in May.

The commissioner said participants in those sports had been rained out so many times that they had been unable to reach or even approach the fine peak required for the hotly contested state events.

Discussing things in general, Townsend said it appeared to him as if there was an increasing number of high schools competing with each other in spring football practice.

"There is no law against this, however, as long as there is no admission price," the commissioner said.

He refused comment on what he might think of high school college spring grid contests, such as the one played between Massillon High school and Kent State University and won by Massillon 47 to 0. He added, however, that Massillon obtained permission from High School Athletic Association officials before scheduling the contest.

GRIFFITH DENIES CHICAGO 'PRESSURED' CONFERENCE

CHICAGO, April 24 — Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the Western Conference, today emphatically denied that the University of Chicago had brought "pressure" to be kept on the Big Ten basketball schedule.

His denial followed reports that Chicago, which discontinued football, had threatened to "blow the lid" off Big Ten affairs if it was barred from basketball competition. The latter would have been considered equivalent to ouster from the conference.

Big Ten athletic directors, accepting an explanation that no aspersions were ever intended against any member of the conference by any spokesman for Chicago, Sunday voted to schedule 1941 basketball games with Chicago.

ROOKIES STEAL GLORY IN THREE MAJOR MARGINS

Brooklyn Sees Pennant In Park By Virtue Of Clean Record

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, April 24—It is apparent today that the once-a-week shaving brigade is going to have a large say in where the pennant flags will fly this season.

These callow rookies already have made their presence felt and some of them seem destined to develop into stars of the first magnitude.

Irrepressible Dodger fans, who already foresee a pennant on the strength of their club's three straight victories, sans defeat, are loudly proclaiming the merits of Catcher Herman Franks, Outfielder Charley Gilbert, son of the old major league infielder, and Pee Wee Reese, who will have to wait some time before he can cast his first vote.

These three youngsters staged a field day yesterday to assure old Tex Carleton a victory in his come-back campaign. Reese, making his major league debut in place of Leo Durocher, who was sidelined with a sore arm, drove in one run; Franks drove in three with a homer, a double and two singles; and Gilbert topped off the proceedings with two homers, good for four runs. The net result was an 8-3 decision over the Bees.

Sox Have Rookie Ace
The National Leaguers have no corner on the rookie crop. The Red Sox, for instance, took the blankets off Mickey Harris, a 22-year-old lefty from New York, and that young man proceeded to fan eight as he pitched his club to a 7-2 decision over the hapless Senators. Harris was assisted no little by the home runs of Brothers Williams, Finney and Fox.

Then there is Chubby Dean, Connie Mack's chunky left hander, who made his second victory over the world champion Yankees in eight days, a four-hit, 3 to 0 coo of whitewash. Chubby had the champs eating out of his hand and was never in danger.

A strange feature of this game was that the Mackmen used none of their four hits in scoring any of their runs. Bump Hadley generously contributed seven passes and Marius Russo added two more gifts.

While singing the praises of the rookies, it might be just as well not to overlook the work of some of the old timers. There is Paul Wapner, for example, whose pinch hit with the bases loaded in the ninth, drove in two runs to give the unbeaten Pirates a 3-2 margin over Larry French and the rest of the Cubs.

And there is Harry Gumbert, whose four-hit pitching gave the Giants their first win of the season—a 1-0 shutout over the Phillies.

All other games were washed out.

REDS TO LEAVE FOR CHICAGO TO PLAY TWO TILTS

CINCINNATI, April 24 — The Cincinnati Reds, undefeated in three starts in the infant National League pennant chase, prepared today to entrain for Chicago after flood waters invaded Crosley Field and washed out their last two games with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Reds open in Chicago tomorrow for a two-game series and then return home Saturday for a three game duel against Pittsburgh. From all indications, the flood waters will have receded in time for Saturday's scheduled home tilt against the Pirates.

Meanwhile, Red fans were quite jubilant over the ability exhibited by Bill McKechnie's boys to date. In the three games, opponents scored only three runs and accumulated but 18 hits. Paul Derringer pitched a six hit contest, Gene Thompson turned in a five hit game and Bucky Walters coasted in, limiting St. Louis to seven bingles.

Just as long as the Reds continue to receive such superior work from the moundsmen, there doesn't seem to be any obstacle to prevent them from once more capturing the crown.

NEW JAVELIN RECORD

GRANVILLE, April 24—A new Denison record in javelin was written into the books today after Ames Hanna, Granville, tossed the spear 171 feet 9¼ inches in a dual meet with Wittenberg. BARRETT'S BALK SENDS KANSAS CITY TO VICTORY

COLUMBUS, April 23—The Kansas City Blues served notice on other teams in the American Association today that they were out after another league pennant.

Behind the six-hit pitching of Haley and Stancu, the Blues yesterday inflicted the third straight loss on the Columbus Red Birds, 3 to 2. Kansas City now leads the league with three wins against one defeat.

The Blues had to come from behind to win, scoring one run in seventh frame and another in the eighth on a balk by Red Bird hurler Francis "Red" Barrett.

In the only other American Association game played, Milwaukee shutout Toledo at the latter city, 1 to 0. Frank Makosky allowed the Mudhens only four hits.

Move To End Conflicts In School Events Gains

By Russell Fuller

COLUMBUS, April 24—A relay Association to be formed among Ohio High Schools and towns sponsoring spring track relays was suggested today by High School Athletic Commissioner H. R. Townsend.

Although pointing out there was nothing he could do toward organizing such a setup, Townsend said he had approached several persons with the idea.

Such a group, Townsend explained, could meet once or twice a year and set dates for various Relays in order to avoid conflicts such as arise this Saturday when four Relays, to which Ohio teams have been invited, are on the docket.

The Mansfield and Delaware Relays, the two largest meets, are carded for Saturday. As well, Ohio schools have been asked to compete in the Relays at Huntington and Wheeling, W. Va., this week.

Mansfield has already moved to avoid repetition of the conflict next year. But the commissioner opined that a Relay Association would work to the best interest of all concerned, especially in view of the fact that more and more schools are planning to have their own Relays. Ohio Relays, in many instances, are backed by merchants imbued with civic pride.

Along an entirely different line, the commissioner declared that repeated postponements of high school spring track, golf, tennis and baseball contests undoubtedly would affect performances in the state meets in those sports late in May.

The commissioner said participants in those sports had been rained out so many times that they had been unable to reach or even approach the fine peak required for the hotly contested state events.

Discussing things in general, Townsend said it appeared to him as if there was an increasing number of high schools competing with each other in spring football practice.

"There is no law against this, however, as long as there is no admission price," the commissioner said.

He refused comment on what he might think of high school college spring grid contests, such as the one played between Massillon High school and Kent State University and won by Massillon 47 to 0. He added, however, that Massillon obtained permission from High School Athletic Association officials before scheduling the contest.

GRIFFITH DENIES CHICAGO 'PRESSURED' CONFERENCE

CHICAGO, April 24 — Maj. John L. Griffith, commissioner of athletics for the Western Conference, today emphatically denied that the University of Chicago had brought "pressure" to be kept on the Big Ten basketball schedule.

His denial followed reports that Chicago, which discontinued football, had threatened to "blow the lid" off Big Ten affairs if it was barred from basketball competition. The latter would have been considered equivalent to ouster from the conference.

Big Ten athletic directors, accepting an explanation that no aspersions were ever intended against any member of the conference by any spokesman for Chicago, Sunday voted to schedule 1941 basketball games with Chicago.

ROOKIES STEAL GLORY IN THREE MAJOR MARGINS

Brooklyn Sees Pennant In Park By Virtue Of Clean Record

By Pat Robinson

NEW YORK, April 24—It is apparent today that the once-a-week shaving brigade is going to have a large say in where the pennant flags will fly this season.

These callow rookies already have made their presence felt in some of them seem destined to develop into stars of the first magnitude.

Irrepressible Dodger fans, who already foresee a pennant on the strength of their club's three straight victories, sans defeat, are loudly proclaiming the merits of Catcher Herman Franks, outfielder Charley Gilbert, son of the old major league infielder, and Pee Wee Reese, who will have to wait some time before he can cast his first vote.

These three youngsters staged a field day yesterday to assure old Tex Carleton a victory in his come-back campaign. Reese, making his major league debut in place of Leo Durocher, who was sidelined with a sore arm, drove in one run; Franks drove in three; and Gilbert topped off the proceedings with two homers, good for four runs. The net result was an 8-3 decision over the Bees.

Sox Have Rookie Ace

The National Leaguers have no corner on the rookie crop. The Red Sox, for instance, took the blankets off Mickey Harris, a 22-year-old lefty from New York, and that young man proceeded to fan eight as he pitched his club to a 7-2 decision over the hapless Senators. Harris was assisted no little by the home runs of Brothers Williams, Finney and Fox.

Then there is Chubby Dean, Connie Mack's chunky left hander, who made his second victory over the world champion Yankees in eight days, a four-hit, 3 to 0 coe of whitewash. Chubby had the champs eating out of his hand and was never in danger.

A strange feature of this game was that the Mackmen used none of their four hits in scoring any of their runs. Bump Hadley generously contributed seven passes and Marius Russo added two more gifts.

While singing the praises of the rookies, it might be just as well not to overlook the work of some of the old timers. There is Paul Waner, for example, whose pinch hit with the bases loaded in the ninth, drove in two runs to give the unbeaten Pirates a 3-2 margin over Larry French and the rest of the Cubs.

And there is Harry Gumbert whose four-hit pitching gave the Giants their first win of the season—a 1-0 shutout over the Phillies.

All other games were washed out.

REDS TO LEAVE FOR CHICAGO TO PLAY TWO TILTS

CINCINNATI, April 24 — The Cincinnati Reds, undefeated in three starts in the infant National League pennant chase, prepared today to entrain for Chicago after flood waters invaded Crosley Field and washed out their last two games with the St. Louis Cardinals.

The Reds open in Chicago tomorrow for a two-game series and then return home Saturday for a three game duel against Pittsburgh. From all indications, the flood waters will have receded in time for Saturday's scheduled home tilt against the Pirates.

Meanwhile, Red fans were quite jubilant over the ability exhibited by Bill McKechnie's boys to date. In the three games, opponents scored only three runs and accumulated but 18 hits. Paul Deringer pitched a six hit contest, Gene Thompson turned in a five hit game and Bucky Walters coasted in, limiting St. Louis to seven bingles.

Just as long as the Reds continue to receive such superior work from the moundsmen, there doesn't seem to be any obstacle to prevent them from once more capturing the crown.

SCIOTO RETURNS TO BANKS; CLAYPOOL ASKS FLOOD CONTROL MONEY

RIVER'S STAGE FALLS TO 11.87 WEST OF CITY

Congressman Cites Need For Money To Finance Work In Two Counties

PEAK NEARS CINCINNATI

Ohio Receding As Far As Portsmouth; Many Kept Out Of Homes

The Scioto River was returning to its banks Wednesday after sweeping through bottomland and causing much damage to highways of the district during the last several days. The river stage at 8 a. m. Wednesday was 11.87 feet, nearly 11 feet lower than the high mark of 22.22 recorded Sunday at 7:45 a. m.

Additional rain amounting two-tenths of an inch fell late Tuesday afternoon and evening. The temperature in Circleville reached a high of 62 degrees Tuesday afternoon and fell to 40 during the night.

As the streams of the district fell, Congressman Harold Claypool of Chillicothe, who represents the 11th district, went before the flood control committee of congress Tuesday to seek an appropriation for Ross and Pickaway County flood prevention. To support his requests, Claypool showed pictures and first hand information of the flood situation. He spent the last week end at his home.

Additional Cash Asked

He explained that he was prepared to support an additional $4,500,000 appropriation for extension of control in Delaware County, where erection of a dam is already under way.

The flood control committee, at open hearings, has received requests for the addition of $60,000 to its program. Floods of the last few days were expected to serve as a sharp stimulus to additional appropriations.

Claypool made a personal inspection of flood conditions around Bourneville and Bainbridge. Bourneville would be moved to higher ground under plans to construct a dam in Pain Creek at Alum Cliffs and convert part of bottom lands above that point into a reservoir.

The congressman returned home Wednesday morning and declared that he felt certain that the committee would include his recommendation in the final draft of the flood control bill.

By International News Service
As clean-up squads began their work in the upper reaches of the Ohio River valley, a 60-foot flood crest slowly approached Cincinnati today.

Predictions were that the crest would be reached at the Queen City at about noon and remain at approximately that stage for 24 hours.

Residents of the lowland regions bordering the river have been evacuated on both sides of the river. In Northern Kentucky, 150 families in the small Village of California were being supplied water by means of tank trucks and boats. Cisterns and wells of the town have been polluted by floodwaters.

Newport Inundated

With the 60-foot crest, 31 complete city blocks will be inundated in Newport. Light rains fell last night but were not heavy enough to make any appreciable difference in the river stage.

Meanwhile, upstream the river was reported falling as far as Portsmouth. The Ohio crested at Huntington, W. Va., at 56.7 feet, 6.7 feet above flood level before beginning to fall. Marietta residents prepared to move back into evacuated areas as the flood waters began to leave. A stage of 44.5 feet, 8.5 feet above flood level, was recorded there.

Pomeroy had a top crest of 54.3 feet and Point Pleasant, W. Va., a high of 51.09. Two-thirds of the business section of Catlettsburg,

COUNTY AGENT RETURNS AFTER R. E. A. CONFERENCE

Pickaway County Agent F. K. Blair, returning Tuesday from a rural electrification conference held in Mansfield, described the conference as one of the finest electrical exhibitions he had ever seen.

"In the future," Blair said, "electricity will replace practically every other type of power on the farm." New electrical farm equipment will not be a new cost to the farmer, he maintained, but a replaced cost.

The principal objective of the conference, held at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company in Mansfield Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, was to promote rural electrification. Nearly 300 educational workers, county agents, home demonstration agents, extension specialists, utility people and R. E. A. representatives attended the meeting. Eight states were represented.

B. P. Hess, manager of the Rural Electrification division of Westinghouse, was in charge of the conference.

Sam G. Hibben, director of the Westinghouse Applied Lighting, lamp division in Bloomfield, New Jersey, directed all lighting exhibits at the conference. Hibben was in charge of the lighting at the New York World's Fair.

JAPANESE WAR?

The real author of Secretary Hull's "Keep Out of the Dutch East Indies" note to Japan was Stanley Hornbeck, for many years chief Far Eastern adviser of the State Department.

Hornbeck is a former Harvard professor, has spent several years in China, and was appointed by Frank B. Kellogg. For ten years Hornbeck has been warning both Republican and Democratic Secretaries of State that Japan was going on the rampage in China, and urging a firmer policy.

With Roosevelt and Hull he has made more progress than with Hoover and Collidge, with the result that they have been figuring out ways and means of stopping what they figured to be the inevitable push of Japan toward the Dutch East Indies.

1st move was when Roosevelt pulled the U. S. fleet back from the New York World's Fair when things looked black in Europe last summer. This was a gesture to Japan.

2nd move was when he sent the fleet out to Hawaii from the California coast last autumn.

And the third move—sending the fleet farther out into the Pacific—has been secretly discussed for some time. In fact, Secretary Hull had a meeting with the admirals about two months ago in which they weighed the pros and cons of letting the fleet cruise around the probable path to be taken by the Japanese fleet should they decide to head for the Dutch East Indies.

In the end the admirals decided it was too dangerous.

MAY MEAN WAR

But—and this is important—the U. S. fleet is now 800 miles beyond Hawaii. It is on maneuvers, and obviously will not remain there long. But it is not without significance that the President chose this particular time, when Germany was pressuring Holland, to stage these mid-Pacific maneuvers.

Also it is not without significance that he sent out the fleet just at the exact time he warned Japan to keep out of the Dutch East Indies.

NOTE—The Hull warning to Japan is subject to various interpretations, but the interpretation given it by established usage is that if Japan does not heed the warning, it means war. Nations do not usually stick their necks out to tell another nation what to do, without the risk of war.

So you can write it down as certain that if the United States gets into war, it will be through the back door of the Pacific.

MERRY-GO-ROUND

CROSBY'S PROGRAM

A young lady who lived next door to Bing Crosby while he was still singing in a trio hasn't been forgotten by the headman in the Music Hall. Carol MacFarland is her name and she'll make her radio singing debut at the invitation of Bing in the Music Hall Thursday.

Basil Rathbone and Spring Byington will be the other guests for the broadcast over the NEC red network at 10 p. m. Bob Burns, the Music Males, and John Scott Trotter's orchestra will all be there as usual.

Bing Crosby often heard Carol MacFarland sing when she was just a youngster. He took time to give her pointers and predicted a great future for his little next door neighbor. Now that she's twenty-one, Bing is going to have listeners judge her vocal ability in several rhythm numbers.

In addition to interviews with Basil Rathbone and Spring Byington, Crosby will find time to sing "Meet the Sun Half Way," "Last Night's Gardenias," "Sierra Sue," "April Played the Fiddle," and "Yours Is My Heart Alone."

Nominate Immell for Congress

Democratic Primary, May 14, 1940

Robert L. Immell was born in this District and has spent his entire life of 55 years as a resident of Pickaway and Ross Counties. His father died when he was seven years old. He was educated in the schools of Ross County, and during his school days worked at any kind of labor that could be found in order to further his education. He became a teacher at the age of eighteen and taught eight successive years in the same building. During the summer vacations he worked at any kind of labor that could be had.

In 1910 Mr. Immell started in for an agricultural career as a Dirt Farmer and his success in this line by 1930 placed him as one of the most extensive individual operators in our state, and during this time he was gaining valuable experience in most every kind of business that is vital to the welfare of Labor, Business, and Agriculture as it exists in this District.

HIS PUBLIC RECORD

In 1933 the Roosevelt Administration appointed him (without his solicitation) Agent of the Farm Loan Commissioner for the Fourth Federal Land Bank District, (Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee). He served with distinction as a member of a Farm Credit Board that formulated the plans by which over four billion dollars was loaned to American Farmers. His record as a public servant can be best told in the following manner: After six months service he was made Vice President of the Federal Land Bank of Louisville, Kentucky, and his salary raised one thousand dollars a year. After sixteen months service he was forced to leave the Farm Credit Administration due to very serious illness. The directors of the Federal Land Bank voted him a bonus of a thousand dollars on his retirement in appreciation for services rendered. THESE ARE THE FACTS DESPITE THE OPPOSITION'S CHARGE THAT HE HAD A BIG JOB AND WAS NOT BIG ENOUGH TO KEEP IT.

Mr. Immell's opponent says that "Experience is what counts." The opposition's experience in Congress for four years HAS COST THE TAXPAYERS OVER SIXTY THOUSAND DOLLARS and certainly this is a great price to pay for SILENCE. Check his record and you will find his accomplishments as Congressman have not been anything to "write home about." His vote last year to stop the extension of TVA Power Projects (One of our President's best liked projects) certainly has the appearance of a SIMON PURE UTILITY VOTE, and by that vote he denied to users of electric current in this District the possibility of receiving current at a much reduced price as this district is in a position to be served by TVA.

VOTERS, THINK!

If you want to get SERVICE instead of SILENCE vote for .

SCIOTO RETURNS TO BANKS; CLAYPOOL ASKS FLOOD CONTROL MONEY

RIVER'S STAGE FALLS TO 11.87 WEST OF CITY

Congressman Cites Need For Money To Finance Work In Two Counties

PEAK NEARS CINCINNATI

Ohio Receding As Far As Portsmouth; Many Kept Out Of Homes

The Scioto River was returning to its banks Wednesday after sweeping through bottomland and causing much damage to highways of the district during the last several days. The river stage at 8 a. m. Wednesday was 11.87 feet, nearly 11 feet lower than the high mark of 22.22 recorded Sunday at 7:45 a. m.

Additional rain amounting two-tenths of an inch fell late Tuesday afternoon and evening. The temperature in Circleville reached a high of 62 degrees Tuesday afternoon and fell to 40 during the night.

As the streams of the district fell, Congressman Harold Claypool of Chillicothe, who represents the 11th district, went before the flood control committee of congress Tuesday to seek an appropriation for Ross and Pickaway County flood prevention. To support his requests, Claypool showed pictures and first hand information of the flood situation. He spent the last week end at his home.

Additional Cash Asked

He explained that he was prepared to support an additional $4,500,000 appropriation for extension of control in Delaware County, where erection of a dam is already under way.

The flood control committee, at open hearings, has received requests for the addition of $60,000,000 to its program. Floods of the last few days were expected to serve as a sharp stimulus to additional appropriations.

Claypool made a personal inspection of flood conditions around Bourneville and Bainbridge. Bourneville would be moved to higher ground under plans to construct a dam in Pain Creek at Alum Cliffs and convert part of bottom lands above that point into a reservoir.

The congressman returned home Wednesday morning and declared that he felt certain that the committee would include his recommendation in the final draft of the flood control bill.

By International News Service

As clean-up squads began their work in the upper reaches of the Ohio River valley, a 60-foot flood crest slowly approached Cincinnati today.

Predictions were that the crest would be reached at the Queen City at about noon and remain at approximately that stage for 24 hours.

Residents of the lowland regions bordering the river have been evacuated on both sides of the river. In Northern Kentucky, 150 families in the small Village of California were being supplied water by means of tank trucks and boats. Cisterns and wells of the town have been polluted by floodwaters.

Newport Inundated

With the 60-foot crest, 31 complete city blocks will be inundated in Newport. Light rains fell last night but were not heavy enough to make any appreciable difference in the river stage.

Meanwhile, upstream the river was reported falling as far as Portsmouth. The Ohio crested at Huntington, W. Va., at 56.7 feet, 6.7 feet above flood level before beginning to fall. Marietta residents prepared to move back into evacuated areas as the flood waters began to leave. A stage of 44.5 feet, 8.5 feet above flood level, was recorded there.

Pomeroy had a top crest of 54.3 feet and Point Pleasant, W. Va., a high of 51.09. Two-thirds of the business section of Catlettsburg,

Railroad Continues Hunt For Derailer of Flyer

A reminder of the grim tragedy that happened August 22, 1939, was received in the office of Sheriff Charles Radcliff this week when a poster sent out by the Southern Pacific Railway Co. was received. The railroad company is offering a $10,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of the person or persons responsible for derailing the company's fast "City of San Francisco" Harvey, Nebraska, the flyer smashing a bridge and crashing into the Humboldt River.

COUNTY AGENT RETURNS AFTER R. E. A. CONFERENCE

Pickaway County Agent F. K. Blair, returning Tuesday from a rural electrification conference held in Mansfield, described the conference as one of the finest electrical exhibitions he had ever seen.

"In the future," Blair said, "electricity will replace practically every other type of power on the farm." New electrical farm equipment will not be a new cost to the farmer, he maintained, but a replaced cost.

The principal objective of the conference, held at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company in Mansfield Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday, was to promote rural electrification. Nearly 300 educational workers, county agents, home demonstration agents, extension specialists, utility people and R. E. A. representatives attended the meeting. Eight states were represented.

B. P. Hess, manager of the Rural Electrification division of Westinghouse, was in charge of the conference.

Sam G. Hibben, director of the Westinghouse - Applied Lighting, lamp division in Bloomfield, New Jersey, directed all lighting exhibits at the conference. Hibben was in charge of the lighting at the New York World's Fair.

RESIDENTS OF COURT STREET KEEP AUTOS AWAY FROM TRAFFIC

There weren't any automobile accidents on North Court Street Tuesday evening, at least none in which parked cars were involved. Persons who rise early said they couldn't see a car parked in front of a North Court Street home from Northridge Road to Pleasant Street.

Residents of the Court Street hill district received an object lesson Monday night when cars of Elmer Wolf and Myron Taylor were wrecked by a heavy tractor-trailer outfit from Columbus bound for Ironton.

Because the street is so narrow on the hill, police are making an effort to discourage parking in front of homes.

In 1933 the Roosevelt Administration appointed him (without his solicitation) Agent of the Farm Loan Commissioner for the Fourth Federal Land Bank District, (Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee). He served with distinction as a member of a Farm Credit Board that formulated the plans by which over four billion dollars was loaned to American Farmers. His record as a public servant can be best told in the following manner: After six months service he was made Vice President of the Federal Land Bank of Louisville, Kentucky, and his salary raised one thousand dollars a year. After sixteen months service he was forced to leave the Farm Credit Administration due to very serious illness. The directors of the Federal Land Bank voted him a bonus of a thousand dollars on his retirement in appreciation for services rendered. THESE ARE THE FACTS DESPITE THE OPPOSITION'S CHARGE THAT HE HAD A BIG JOB AND WAS NOT BIG ENOUGH TO KEEP IT.

Mr. Immell's opponent says that "Experience is what counts." The opposition's experience in Congress for four years HAS COST THE TAXPAYERS OVER SIXTY THOUSAND DOLLARS and certainly this is a great price to pay for SILENCE. Check his record and you will find his accomplishments as Congressman have not been anything to "write home about". His vote last year to stop the extension of TVA Power Projects (One of our President's best liked projects) certainly has the appearance of a SIMON PURE UTILITY VOTE, and by that vote he denied to users of electric current in this District the possibility of receiving current at a much reduced price as this district is in a position to be served by TVA.
